John Lord Bacon : Forge-Practice (Elementary) (Classic Reprint) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Forge-Practice (Elementary) (Classic Reprint):

This little volume is the outgrowth of a series of notes given to the students at Lewis Institute from time to time in connection with shop work of the character described. It is not the authors purpose to attempt to put forth anything which will in any way take the place of actual shop work, but rather to give some explanation which will aid in the production of work in an intelligent manner. The examples cited are not necessarily given in the order in which they could most advantageously be made as a series of exercises, but are grouped under general headings in such a way as to be more convenient for reference. The original drawings from which the engravings were made were drawn by L. S. B. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and don't occur in the book.)
