

(Free download) Foundrywork for the Amateur (Workshop Practice Series)

Foundrywork for the Amateur (Workshop Practice Series)

B. Terry Aspin

*ebooks | Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook

#2381742 in Books 1984-08 Original language: English PDF # 1 #File Name: 085242842196 pages | File size: 37.Mb

B. Terry Aspin : Foundrywork for the Amateur (Workshop Practice Series) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Foundrywork for the Amateur (Workshop Practice Series):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Handy reference By Darryl K Dodge This book, as many in the workshop series are, simply a rehash of old information. This is still a handy reference piece to have on hand. It also should be presented to potential purchasers, that many of these are from a strictly British background and viewpoint. 12 of 12 people found the following review helpful. Old school keeping it simple still works. By PT Sideshow This volume is typical of any published by MAP reprints and revised editions bring the way it was done for the hobbyist. In the day, before everything had to have a digital read out/computer controlled what ever. This gives enough information to a shop person with some experience. The knowledge to cast some small parts, make the pattern and a furnace. By far there are more numerous books out there, with more info and flashier layout. But they could not give you the basic knowledge in 8 chapters. In the ninth chapter he goes over a small scale cupola drop bottom furnace. If for nothing else the explanation of how it operates. The drawings are old school text book style, clear line drawings with notation. The few BW photos are clear enough to see what they wanted you to. For some one who wants an idea of how to do it, for the price this is the one. I own it. and It was a light couple hour read.

An introduction to casting in most metals. Subjects covered include crucibles and melting methods, moulding sands and mixtures, making moulding boxes, patterns and cores, preparing a mould, melting ferrous and non-ferrous metals and tools.