

Nurturing the Write Relationship: Developing a Family Writing Lifestyle and Traditions

Mary Ann Froehlich

audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

 Download

 Read Online

#3483489 in Books 2007-08-01 Original language: English PDF # 1 9.02 x .53 x 5.981, .74 #File Name: 0970181698252 pages | File size: 51.Mb

Mary Ann Froehlich : Nurturing the Write Relationship: Developing a Family Writing Lifestyle and Traditions before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Nurturing the Write Relationship: Developing a Family Writing Lifestyle and Traditions:

Teaching your child to write about his or her life can help them handle challenges and nurture relationships. Ann motivates you to teach your children to express emotions and personal experience and laughter into a writing lifestyle. This book is an inspiration for writers of all ages, from children expressing thoughts through pictures and journaling, to teenagers documenting spiritual growth, to adults communicating grief, or professional writers collecting ideas for stories. Activities include several types of journaling, letterwriting, and more.

About the Author Robin Sampson is a home schooling mother of eleven children and author of several acclaimed homeschool books. Robin favorite things include God's Word, the Hebrew roots of Christianity, family, horses, reading, writing, and scrapbooking. She has authored articles on education for Homeschool Today, Teaching Home, Home School Digest and This Old Schoolhouse. She has been the keynote speaker and provided popular presentations at conferences, workshops and meetings since 1989. Much of Robin's ability to identify, empathize, and instruct her audiences is based on her successful home schooling experience. She continues to teach her youngest children at home and enjoys visit with her 12 grandchildren. Robin and her family reside in Stafford VA.