themes from many of them! Also recipes on making your own scented perfumes, scented paper, scented ink.3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Good one!By Bonnie HallI'm a total newbie to playing in splashes, colognes, etc., and am finding this to be a very interesting and useful guide. I'm having quite a wonderful time trying the recipes and "how to's" in it.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Scott16Great price and came fast!

Discover the joys of crafting your own unique and personal perfumes. Nancy Booth shows you how to pinpoint your fragrance preferences and design personalized products for both body and home. Learn how to use herbs, essential oils, natural plant extracts, and alcohol to create one-of-a-kind perfumes, sprays, colognes, and potpourris that not only smell great, but are free of harsh chemicals. With helpful tips on storing, packaging, and even marketing your products, you'll be inspired to explore the aromatic world of homemade fragrance.

From Library JournalWe live in a world surrounded by scents, some pleasant and some not always to our liking. Homemade natural scents can provide a pleasing alternative to commercial products. Booth, a teacher of perfumery, provides recipes for perfumes and other scented items using mainly essential oils, spices, herbs, and fruit extracts. A description of perfume ingredients and correct use of scents is included. Practical line drawings typical of this publisher accompany the text. A good selection for crafts collections.
