Near replication of another book by same authorBy Kate O.While the projects in the book are cute and enticing to children, I was angry to discover most of the projects and photographs are the same as in the book Crafting with Kids by the same author. I feel cheated that someone can just change the title and the organization of a book and remarket it for the same audience.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Fun ideas to answer the perpetual questionBy Amber L JohnsonMy daughter is 3, so many projects in this book are a little beyond her skills right now, but we're looking forward to lots of great projects together as she grows. We've made paper chains and are saving lavender from her garden for sachets!4 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Ideas for crafts with children.By B.A. S.Many of the ideas within this book have been elsewhere for some time. Good basic book if you don't already have something like it.

For children, the experience of creating is every bit as important as the end result. Crafting will fire their imaginations and offers an inspiring alternative to endless hours in front of the computer or TV screen. What Shall We Do Today? is packed with more than 60 colorful, fun, and imaginative projects designed for boys and girls aged between 312 years. The book is arranged by season, and each section is crammed full of vibrant, appealing ideas for fun crafting activities, great gifts, and pretty decorations. Every project can be completed using readily available materials just follow the step-by-step instructions and you can't go wrong.

About the Author Catherine Worams earlier books include Crafting With Kids and Gardening with Kids (also published by Ryland Peters Small). Catherine lives in south-west London.
