A "MUST HAVE" for Girl Scout LeadersBy Sabrina IngallsIf

you are a Troop leader, or even a Girl Scout Member, I highly recommend purchasing BOTH "On My Honor" (Volume 1) and "Whene'er You Make A Promise"(Volume 2). These are beautifully illustrated, and are a great hands-on way for girls of any age to learn about the history of scouting in the US. Younger girls will appreciate being able to dress the dolls of many time periods, older girls will enjoy the personal stories.Both tie in with a number of badge and patch requirements, such as the "Brownie Girl Scouts Through the Years" and "Her Story" Try-its, also, the "Juliette Lowe" Patch, and "Girl Scouting Around the World" Junior badges, among others! What a great resource, and hard to find! Add this to your resource library for yourself or your Service Unit!!

Lillian Gilbreth, of Cheaper by the Dozen fame, and philanthropist-trainer Helen Storrow are the historic dolls featured in this collection of seven, including narrators Caitlin, Nancy, and Gwat, whose journals cover the onset of the Great Depression through the bombing of Pearl Harbor.Ross's signature renderings of eleven uniforms and other fashions include Lillian Gilbreth's 1939 uniform in the new silver green; a beloved quilted floral silk jacket worn by Helen Storrow in the well-known portrait made at her Bermuda home, Fair Winds; and a Cherokee tear dress.Other books in the paper doll history of the Girl Scout uniform:On My Honor, Volume OneHelping Hands, Volume Three
