The messages are truly self-affirming and yes, inappropriate -- as soon as I saw this combination, I was sold! The designs are simply lovely and with enough detail to allow you to escape into the page as you color. I love anything that Jen Myers publishes, and this coloring book is no exception. Recommendations: gel pens are especially awesome with this; as seen with the wording in my images, you aren't necessarily going to want to share this book with your children. ;) 7 of 7 people found the following review helpful. Wonderful Gift By Larva225 I have a colleague at work who is typically very mild-mannered. Lately, she's been becoming frustrated with policy and personnel in our department. This was the perfect birthday present! She keeps this in her desk and whips it out when she's having a particularly irritating day. So fun! 5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Using felt tip fine point pen By Quill If you like fine point felt tip pens make sure to put a sheet in between pages, little dots of color do bleed through. Really love the variety of drawings. One page is a heart with flowers and patterns that's half the page, the next is a full page of a garden.

A second Totally Inappropriate coloring book, You're TOTALLY Badass, available now! Color like the badass you are. Coloring is relaxing, easy, and fun. But do you know what's even better? A sassy coloring book that boosts your self-esteem while you color. Inside this beautiful book you'll find 21 single-sided, gorgeous frameable designs to color and enjoy. Handpicked for their beauty and ranging from simple to intricate, most of the drawings include uplifting messages...from the socially acceptable "You've got this" to the cheekily profane "You are a metric shit ton of awesome." So grab some pencils or markers, find a comfortable place to artistically unwind, and get ready to raise your spirits while you release your inner sass in full-color splendor.

About the Author JEN MEYERS grew up in Vermont, spent three years in Germany when she was a kid, and now lives in central New York. When she's not reading, writing, or designing coloring books, she's chasing after her four kids, playing outside, relishing the few quiet moments she gets with her husband, and forgetting to make dinner. Besides designing totally inappropriate coloring books, she also writes contemporary romance and young adult fantasy. She is the author of the (completely appropriate) Intangible series, the (perfectly inappropriate) Happily Ever After series and Anywhere, and co-author of the (totally inappropriate) Untamed series.
